By JACK CALDER

Toronto, April 8.—(CP)—Hockey fans justified the contention that the Toronto Maple Leafs had better played strongly in the closing period of the National Hockey League in a single season.

The crowd-left wingman from Kingston, Ont. scored the winning goal in the seventh minute by play Saturday night.

The Leafs' play was the best of the season in the third game of the playoffs. The youngsters' spectacular defense was a success of 1500 spectators in the world series performance, including his feat of scoring a goal in the first two games at home, 2-1 in a single game.

NORWAY FIGHTS BACK, DECLARES WAR

GERMANY'S FORCES TAKE OVER ARMED PROTECTION OF NEUTRAL NORWAY

German Troops Landed in Norway, Denmark And Norwegian Gov't Declares War With Reich; All Communication With Copenhagen Cut Off

Denmark Apparently Yields Without Resistance But Norway Elects to Fight, Orders Full Mobilization and Receives Allied Commands for Full Aid—Allies Gain Long-Sought Flanking Position Against Germany

Events Move Swiftly

Admiralty Refuses to Comment on Possibility That Big Naval Engagement Had Taken Place or Was in Progress — Norwegian Flares Battle German Air Raiders — Strategic Parts of Norway Seized by Germany

LONDON, April 9 (CP)—Germany invaded neutral Norway and Denmark today in a lightning stroke which she said was for their "protection" against the Allies. Denmark apparently yielded without resistance but Norway elected to fight. The Norwegian government moved from Oslo, ordered full mobilization and got an immediate Allied guarantee of full aid.

Swedish Iron ore, moving down the Norwegian coast waters to Germany, was the smouldering fuse which set off the bombshell and got the Allies at last their long-sought flanking position against Germany.

The German onslaught against the two Scandinavian states today probably came while British patrol ships were fighting a heavy fleet action with German naval units. The Admiralty refused to comment on renewed reports that such a big engagement had taken place or was still in progress, but responsible quarters felt the German occupation would have been impossible unless the British fleet was being kept busy elsewhere.

British warships were known to have been patrolling the Norwegian coast, and 125 German naval vessels, ranging from small boats to heavy cruisers, were sighted in the Skagerrak yesterday.

STIRING EVENTS PIECED TOGETHER

Reports from a variety of sources pieced together this stirring list of events:

German troops simultaneously moved northward across the Danish border and landed at Copenhagen, taking over the city's railroad and postal stations. There were no reports of opposition as the Danes fled into German hands.

Four German warships tried to force the Oslo Fjord by sea, but were repelled by shore batteries. Another attempt was made by a single ship which ran aground.

President Signs Decree Providing Death for Nazi and Communist Propaganda

Paris, April 9 (CP)—Reports that the Allied and German war fronts are in contact of the "war front" could be verified, long today while urgent conferences continued in London and Paris.

The reports followed closely an announcement in London and Paris that the German invasion of Norway and Denmark indicated that the Norwegian state will be retained, available, however.

The report of naval activity gave the impression that a series of engagements were being fought. The fighting was said to be going in a heavy storm along the western coast of Norway.

Premier Paul Reynaud had his war cabinet and then left for London with conference Minister, Jacques Laval.

Prime Minister, Premier Reynaud received M. H. Baehre, the Norwegian Minister, telling him the British and French Governments would extend full aid to Norway.

THE NAZI DESTROYERS LOST AT NARVIK ON Outcome of British Fleet Action Depends Possibility of the Allies Getting Fighting Force to Norway AT LEAST 15 GERMAN SHIPS, ALL CLASSES, SUNK

On Outcome of British Fleet Action Depends Possibility of the Allies Getting Fighting Force to Norway

Desperate Encounter Takes Place at Narvik as Series of Air and Naval Battles Rages Up and Down Norwegian Coast - German Cruisers and Destroyers Reported British Fleet Deliberately Allowed the German Fleet to Sally Forth to Cover Landings of Their Troops in Hope of Crisping or Destroying Same

Greatest Battle Since Jutland
British Warships Ready to Force Passage Into Tromsø Fjord Where German Cruisers are Holed - Reported British Fleet Deliberately Allowed the German Fleet to Sally Forth to Cover Landings of Their Troops in Hope of Crisping or Destroying Same

By J. F. SANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
LONDON, April 10 (CP)—War at sea on the biggest scale since Jutland took apparently found the Royal Navy's fleet in the very waters that saw the Kaiser's fleet defeated in 1916.

Destruction of a German destroyer and two troop transports in the Skogervik was reported in London tonight, indicating naval units had penetrated this entrance to the Baltic in a swift blow at Hitler's efforts to support his Scandinavian gamble with troops enough to back up the army. Such penetration would sever Germany's communication links to Norway and jeopardize the German invasion of Norway.

ROYAL NAVY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
As Great Britain's fleet high up on Norway's western coast, in Norway with the full strength of her navy backed by an expeditionary force, rumors persisted that the navy already had captured Bergen and Trondheim, occupied when the German invasion of Norway started.

It was reported also that British fighting ships had returned to Narvik, high up on Norway's western coast, and landed blue-jacketed marines to follow up this morning's engagement when a German destroyer was sunk and three left burning.

None of these reports was confirmed by the Admiralty, which evidently was waiting until all the evidence is in. They were silent points, however, in fragmentary stories of a big sea battle or series of engagements going on since yesterday along the storm-tossed Norwegian coast, in areas in which it was evident the Allies were meeting success as extent of the fighting was known.

How many German ships had been ordered out, how many ships of the Royal Navy and French marine fleet lay in wait for them, was a matter of conjecture. Premier Paul Reynaud of France told his Senate that "a great many" German ships had "exposed themselves" and that the rest were bottled up in Norwegian ports.

There was every indication that the battle—or series of engagements—was still going on, a battle possible to compare as taking rank in decisive effect with that of Jutland in 1916, which ended German naval power—except for submarine piracy—in the first Great War.

But its nature and extent were not known today and may not be revealed until Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, makes a statement in the House of Commons tomorrow on the naval activity of today and yesterday as a whole.

The Narvik action and the sinking of the 10,000-ton Bluecher and the 6,000-ton Karlsruhe—acknowledged by the German high command as a Royal Air Force attack on German warships in Bergen harbor, were three definite matters of known fact from a long and storm-shrouded battle in Norwegian ports.

NORWAY LOSES TWO SHIPS
Information reaching here through Sweden concerning Germany's first attack on Narvik so far Norway's two largest warships, the 4,165-ton Norge and Esbjorn, were sunk with a loss of 500 lives. The ships were of old and little value to the modern ship.

The Royal Air Force attacked on the Germans at Bergen were stranded in a situation which, a direct hit had been scored on a cruiser of the 6,000-ton Koln class and that others were probably damaged.

2 Nazi Troopships And Destroyer Sunk Off Swedish Coast

LONDON, April 10 (CP)—The Royal Navy was reported tonight to have penetrated the strategic Skagerrak, the entrance to the Baltic Sea, and to have sunk two German troop transports and a German destroyer in a battle just outside Swedish territorial waters.

Reuters News Agency reported the sinking of the German transports and destroyer after the Stockholm radio had announced that such a battle was raging near Montred, on the Swedish west coast.

Germany Admits Loss Of Two Cruisers in Actions Against Norway

Berlin, April 10 (AP)—Germany admitted tonight that two cruisers under the flag of Norway, which had been ordered out to sea, had been sunk off the Norwegian coast.

A high command communiqué stated that the Norwegian cruiser, which had been ordered out to sea, had been sunk off the Norwegian coast.

The German minister to Norway had an audience with King Haakon VII. at noon, it was reported, to discuss the situation.

Foreign Secretary Vincent Halls, who is in London today, said that the Allies would report any German Navy's action as "action taken under duress."

He also said that the German government had been ordered to stop the warships from leaving the coast.

Any Negotiations Between Norway and Germany War Supply Board at Beginning of Hostilities
Navy Not Idle
Mighty War Machine of Britain and France in End Will Prove Irresistible

LONDON, April 10 (CP)—Premier Neville Chamberlain declared tonight that the Allies will fight for "defenceless munitions and Norway" regardless of the "German" negotiations with Germany which would be reported as "under duress."

He said he did not know whether the report that Norway is ready to negotiate with Germany was founded, but he added that in any event the Allies would continue to fight for Norway.

"The British navy is not idle," he said. "The British navy is not idle," he said. "The British navy is not idle," he said.

LONDON, April 10 (CP)—Five British destroyers forced their way into the fjord at Narvik in Norway today, where they won a great victory over a superior force of German destroyers and supply ships.

The British fleet had two destroyers, but the German force was superior in numbers and firepower. The British fleet was superior in maneuverability and speed.

Discuss Plan to Organize Township School Board

Tues.-Wed. P. E. Crow, chief inspector of the Province of Ontario was the chief speaker at a meeting of trustees and ratepayers of Sherbro Township held at Al. Stotholme on Friday afternoon. Most of the town school sections were represented at the meeting.

The meeting was held for the purpose of considering the organization of a Township Board. Mr. Crow claimed the advantage to the ratepayers of the township of the adoption of such a plan.

One result will be the saving of $1000. This will make it unnecessary in some cases to make any special levy for school purposes.

The proposal met with general favour and it is believed will be adopted in the near future. Mr. Crow was introduced by Inspector W. A. W. McChesney.

Mr. Alex. Tumbell of Tumbell & Son, Toronto, during their week-end visit to the township, was a special guest of the meeting. He was a special guest of the meeting. He was a special guest of the meeting.

Fall of Sterling In No Way Sign Of Financial Weakness

Sir John Simon Explains 'Very Small Proportion' of Sterling is Held by Foreigners

London, April 9. — (CP) — Sir John Simon, chancellor of the Exchequer, said today he is preparing an official statement on the decline of the Pound Sterling.

"I think it would be wrong to interpret in a spirit of gloom the fact that the value of the pound has fallen," he said.

"The fact is that the value of the pound has fallen, but this is no sign of financial weakness or difficulties on the part of this country," he said.

The decline was limited to the very small proportion of sterling held by foreigners.

"To add 'very policy' is to maintain the purchasing power of sterling," he said.

Norwegian Coastal Guns Credited With Helping British Jan Their Way Through Oslo Fjord — Closing of Skagerrak Strait Blow at Germany's Lifeline for Reinforcements of Her Invading Troops and Mastery of the Strait by Britain Would Almost Certainly Mean the Salvation of Norway

LONDON, April 11 (CP)—Tales of destruction wrecked on the German fleet in forcing battles off Norway, with Oslo reported under the muzzles of British naval guns and Bergen and Trondheim seized from the Nazis, brought cheer today to Britons who fought off air raids on their own shores.

The chief British strategist, Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, was expected to take time this afternoon from his sleepless vigil in the Admiralty map room to tell the House of Commons the course of the crucial fighting on which hinges the fate of Scandinavia and possibly the course of the war against Germany.

Paris, April 11 (CP)—Germany has lost 30 ships, 10 of them troop transporters, from the sea, British and French naval forces in the North Sea have captured 10 German submarines, and the German fleet is being driven back to the Channel, the British navy spokesman declared today.

The premier said German fleet losses included four cruisers, two destroyers and six submarines. The orders represented one-quarter of Germany's total fleet.

There was no allied victory in the battle, he said, because Germany's fleet was not destroyed, but because the German fleet was being driven back to the Channel, the British navy spokesman declared today.

He termed Germany a "desperate" and compared the Norwegian resistance to the Belgian resistance in 1914.

NEW PLANE REPORTED "TOPS" ON WESTERN FRONT

Shown in flight ABOVE is a Grumman, twin-engined skyrocket fighting plane, which is still in the experimental stage, has proved superior to any other fighter plane in actual combat on the western front. The plane was developed with the aid of the United States Navy. The skyrocket is so named because of its ability to climb any airplane built in the world today. It also carries more heavy gun power than any other plane and has an additional fuel capacity above normal military load to increase flying range so that it may act as convoy for bombers on long-range missions.

standing be the vanguard of an attack on or near Narvik, the British navy has completed a carefully planned operation which deserves high praise for the skill with the battle plan and the Graf Spee. It seems that the combined daring with precise calculations—and without preparations, down to the smallest detail—no amount of courage can succeed in the difficult German warfare now progressing on the coast of Norway.

RODE IN BUSES

London, April 30.—(CP)—Winston Churchill, British prime minister, rode on the House Guards' motorcade on the Horse Guards' parade grounds, led by soldiers of the 1st Canadian Army, and was accompanied by Lord Mountbatten, commander in chief of the British Commonwealth forces in the Far East, and other officials. Churchill, who was wearing a dark overcoat and a hat, was seen during this motorcade to purge and clean the streets of the Victoria, the Mall of London from the filth pollution of "Nazis."

Members of the Admiralty and the War Office were seen at a welcome to about 100 men of the Hardy, back from Narvik where their ship was grounded in the first heavy fog that has now been broken and cleared on April 30.

The Hardy's crew, which landed near Harvik when the rest of the British fleet withdrew from the combat and maintained themselves ashore despite German occupation forces, were welcomed by the British warships and returned to England.

Other British warships are well content with the manner in which you have discharged your duty," Mr. Churchill said.

The sailors rode from Ruston station past lines of cheering Londoners in three motorbuses, where the First Lord welcomed them.

There were no official estimates of Allied troops in Norway, but Scandinavians said Germany had from 60,000 to 80,000 soldiers there. (Swedish press dispatches reported three Allied divisions—perhaps 40,000 men—had made landings, one of them 90 miles inland at the head of the Sogne fjord.)

They were outnumbered in the land alliance that brought about the downfall of Napoleon. The British and the French were aware, the northlands still are, of the resources and many modern weapons in find they have seen from shore. As a result they are great sailors and fishers. Also they are brewers of beer and distillers of whisky, and rich in iron mines, and possessors of water power. Also they are Germany's rich industrial fields.

They have been ordered to build armies of navies, even to the ex-ally, indicated in a speech last night that the Allies expect the Norwegian campaign to be successful. The Wehrmacht has survivors of naval warfare off the Norwegian coast.

Invasion Ends Long Peace

NEW YORK, April 30—(AP)—
hair-haired, blue-eyed fighters to Europe.

They were the Vikings—whose successful descendants today are

The first Norsemen probably migrated from the Russian steppes into a Scandinavian area newly freed from the grip of the Mongols. From ships and on ice, they plundered as an easier way of life than farming their fjord-riven lands.

They bled into Britain, making it Angleland. They bled into Paris. They bled into Normandy and the rest of the British Isles. Europe, their nobles wielded power from Novgorod to Kler, and from "Rus" to the Slavic word for "swider," became the name for the Russians.

—Bertil

They could do all this because the inhabitants of the old empire had forgotten the use of arms and because the Vikings could strike swiftly in their long ships. Their ships could sail to a place that had never been considered by Columbus: to the world capital, Constantinople. Meanwhile, star-alike the Vikings fought among themselves.

Petty kings ruled the northern lands. Strife was constant. Norway was finally brought under the single rule of Harold Fair Hair in the ninth century. In the eleventh century, Norway, Sweden and Denmark were one monarchy. Three centuries later, Norway, Sweden and Denmark were under a single crown. In 1814, Norway recognized the independence of Norway.

Despite Fighting Expected

Although the British military reinforcements at Narvik were arriving every hour along a 15-mile front, the British command said it might fight at Steinkjer, north of Helsingor.

East Central Fighting, between Norwegian and German troops, was continuing in the mountains north of Oslo, and Erevrum, 15 miles farther northeast, British officials said.

Continuing to Fight

According to Norwegian command, the fighting with Norse commanders, however, was continuing.

Erevrum had fallen and that the government reply in Helsingor had said that the fighting was probably also captured. Norwegian sources had said Norway, from the fifty per cent of the country's population in the coastal quarters, meanwhile appeared to take a more serious view of the situation. "The 'rattling' through the recently captured German town of the Italian press," the British command said, "has been a serious blow to the German Steam Allied Power."

The British government opinion, however, was that the situation was not so serious. It was usually replied to the Italian press that the power was "both the power as determination to intervene for the sake of the independence of a small country."

The Times newspaper, however, had said that the government reply to the Italian press was that the attack on Norway had made it impossible to support the government's position. The face of an assassination, the integrity or independence of any Italian or independent

Advice to the Lovelorn

New One Woman kept the love from the door.

Never has there been a more popular subject for discussion in the columns than the one brought about by a letter from a woman, a high school graduate, with a year in a business college, who was confronted with the problem of sending her children after her actual work of trying them for her adoption.

The interesting part of this letter has been the response of the editors who have come from people who similarly situated. Mothers have told of their own experience with the problem of sending their children after their actual work of trying them for her adoption.

Paris Hears Reports Transport Fleet Escorted by Ice-Breakers

Some See Nazi Coup

Paris, April 23 (AP)—Continued reports that a fresh Nazi invasion of the Baltic had been selected from German Baltic ports by military and naval forces, broke news by which the broken were cited by military and naval sources as further evidence of a suspected German move.

News of the significant loss of the Baltic Sea followed reports of embankment and demolition work in the Baltic carried out by the Germans at Gdynia, and the Danish island of Bornholm, immediately opposite.

French military quarters discussed reports that the fresh German troops might merely be designed to reinforce the Nazi Army in the Baltic in the event of a move to the east of the Baltic, rather than to the west, where they might be engaged in fighting at Narva.

Some Observers Favour Coup

The entry of ice-breakers—some of them new transport—into the Baltic was also linked with the crumbling of the ice cover along the southern coast of the Baltic Sea, which was reported to have been broken by the German fleet.

French military quarters also have been told that the German fleet has been ordered to go to Sweden to bolster their forces.

Carl's voice was strong and steady and kind. Faith felt that Sue was leaning on his strength. They both knew that the other two boys had never repaired them. "You lay it on us just once clearly, Sue. We won't bother you with questions or that. Tell us what happened."

Why could he not have waited until after their first child was born? The thought of the relationship between a man and a woman, which was so often so beautiful and enduring and honest, was shattered.

She asked, "Ready?"

The door of that room closed behind them forever. While Cal and Gus stepped into the new life, she waited outside.

She said, "You know, I might have said, 'I—I might have been like this, not having sex out of criticism.'"

Cal looked at the serious posture beneath the new black velvet turban.

"You've dropped it and left it there."

"Thanks."

Cal joined them presently and soon the robot of wet road wind whistled again.

The vessels were reported to have gone down a little west of the mouth of the river, leaving the channel open. The cause of the sinkings was unexplained.

STREAMS WELL-STOCKED

Toronto, April 26 (CP)—Uncommon thousands of Ontario residents recently were able to enjoy trout fishing from big catches as they awaited tomorrow's dawn and opening of the 1966 fishing season.

Anglers flocked to streams and on far-flung small groups of men gathered to exchange stories of bait, of fish and of the best secret places where the big ones show.

But all agreed the outlook for big catches tomorrow was not too good.

"The water level in the lake after rain water is too high in lakes and streams for trout fishing to be good," said one angler.

There are many lakes in northern Ontario, where the water level is low. The idea is not conducive to good fishing conditions and the trout are not in the best of health.

They will be about two weeks late from Peterborough to the Georgian Bay. Water is too high for good fishing.

The Georgian Bay Ontario province government has been told by fishermen. More than 1,500 fishermen are expected to be in the water and streams within 30 miles of Owen Sound.

Despite the heavy snowfall, the ground has been comparatively

True-to-it as the water is, the gulls also love the ground it inhabits. That's why there are so many streams and small inland lakes in the Oregon Badlands. The birds are but little above their normal level. Fishermen have well-stocked to the brim with trout and brook trout in the well-wooded creeks.

Government officials at Turlock are confident that the forecast of the number of fishermen likely to match will with trout fishing is not far off.

Major influx of American fishermen will be from the north, a number of them, or so, but the number of fishermen taken out so far by non-residents is not as high as last year.

Last year there was a record number of non-residents. So far, the number of non-residents in 1960 figures are still substantially ahead of last year's mark.

It is expected that the opening this year is that fishermen legally can catch Rainbow trout this year in the Oregon Badlands district. Usually the season for Rainbow trout opens June 16, but so far the season has been changed.

London, April 26—(CP)—The Air Ministry announced today that a large fire was seen last night after British planes attacked oil storage tanks at Vallo on Oslo Fjord. A large transport also was attacked in the fjord.

The offensive action by large numbers of Royal Air Force aircraft against enemy bases in Norway and Denmark continued throughout Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and last night," the Air Ministry communique said.

"Among other objectives," it added, "oil tanks at Vallo on Oslo Fjord were attacked and a large fire was seen. A large transport was also attacked in this fjord."

Taken Prisoners Before First Naval Battle But Arrive in England Sunday

Brewnell, April 28.—(CP)—Forty-seven British seamen who escaped from the German at Narvik arrived at Newcastle Sunday. Thirty-two were from the steamship North Cornwall, which was captured by the German at Narvik before the first naval battle. The seamen were taken to the 682nd Battalion and eight from the 681st Battalion. The men from the North Cornwall told how they eluded their captors.

"We were guarded by the ship after 30 miles through the snow for 11 hours," Robert Clifford, taken prisoner, said. "We were taken to a village where to our great surprise we found about 120 men from the German navy and a number of men from the German navy. The naval ratings had been provided with clothing by the Norwegian, so that they would not be recognized."

German Assault Group Repulsed at Attack West of Vosges Mountains

Paris, April 28.—(CP)—Battled—marked losses on both sides occurred when a German assault group was repulsed after attacking a French position west of the Vosges Mountains yesterday, military sources reported here Sunday.

After extremely violent artillery exchanges the German assault group advanced at 3:30 a.m. to a French position in the wooded hills. A large-scale mine-thrower continued to the artillery preparation.

After very vigorous fighting the arrival of French reinforcements made it possible to push the Germans back to their front of departure.

A sharp attack occurred just before the morning when the assault group of volunteer fighters attacked a German position. The fighting was quite bitter and the French had only five or six men left in the position. The German assault group was repulsed and the French reinforcements continued to the artillery preparation.

DENMARK POOR
AFTER 3 WEEKS OF NAZI RULE

Nazi Germany has polluted the free life of Denmark and has rendered the nation's army and navy as the sons of Vikings and the Allies battle to repel the enemy.

If any nation needed proof of the deep depravity of the Nazis it is to be seen in the trail of crime which openly began with the crossing of the Rhine in 1936. There, treaties were torn to scraps, though the treaties were fairly enough, but was just a Nazi cry to arouse the German nation into unity against the rest of the world.

Austria was not absolutely submerged, Czechoslovakia has been robbed of its independence, Poland still suffers from the inhumanities of the war of ravishment. Now, wealthy Denmark has been reduced to a mere puppet state, its best to preserve neutrality and took every possible step to avoid the monster of Nazism, is trodden in the dust.

Because it happened at a time of peace, there is a never-ending stream of light and darkness. One follows the other, and the light is a mere flicker of hope.

The city man gives up at the light. But for the rural people, the light is the sun, which sets the time, the country and also in the city.

During the last few months, there is a never-ending stream of light and darkness. One follows the other, and the light is a mere flicker of hope.

The city man gives up at the light. But for the rural people, the light is the sun, which sets the time, the country and also in the city.

Denmark is an instance of what the shame of military production has done to a nation. It is a nation that has been reduced to a mere puppet state, its best to preserve neutrality and took every possible step to avoid the monster of Nazism, is trodden in the dust.
